Five feet seven inches in height, weight about 130 pounds, blue eyes, light complexion, light brown mustache, and two upper front teeth filled with gold.

—The arrangements for the funeral of George Reed were not carried out as planned, because of the non-arrival of Mrs. Lee Sherman from Glenn Falls, N. Y., until noon today. The remains were taken from the depot to the Knights of Pythias rooms in Opera Block, escorted by the members of that order in this city; and from there taken to Oakwood cemetery this afternoon. Those from the lodge at Rock Island to accompany the remains to Dixon were: W. T. Hurtz, Irving D. Burgh, J. T. Dixon and Charles Wheelom. The last named gentleman has been the business partner of deceased for a number of years. Mr. Reed was also a member of the society of Modern Woodmen.

FATHER CLEARY'S LECTURE

The temperance discourse of Father Cleary at St. Patrick's church last evening was well attended, and was one of the best talks on that subject that has been given in this city for many a day. Previous to the appearance of the reverend gentleman, the audience was treated to a musical recital of half an hour, which in itself was a treat and left the mind in a condition of receptivity for the ennobling sentiments and practical truths that were to follow.

Father Cleary is a man of fine physique, pleasantly dignified in deportment, and with a strong, clear and finely modulated voice. A man, too, of logical mind and scholarly attainments. His discourse was strong—not in invective, for there was none; not in oratorical effect, for there was no attempt at display; not in flowery language, for it was devoid of ornament; not in its appeals to the emotions, for it was addressed to the intellect. It was strong in its plain, practical common sense; in its forcible logic; in its presentation of undeniable facts and its clearly drawn deductions therefrom; in that every sentence contained a thought clothed in a garb of the most appropriate language. So fair in his handling of the liquor traffic, that even the liquor dealer could take no reasonable offense, and yet so convincing in his argument against the traffic that even the liquor dealer, if present, must have admitted the justice of his condemnation.

The speaker commenced with a sympathetic allusion to the recent disaster by which three of our citizens lost their lives, and the transition was easy to a discussion of that evil by which so many lives were lost and so much misery engendered. He first spoke of the powerful hold the morbid appetite has on the people, and of the different methods and ideas in vogue in combatting it. Some placed their dependence for its suppression on legislative enactment; others based their hopes on moral suasion. Some looked for relief in legal control; others in prohibitory enactiments. But an evil of such stupendous proportions requires the combined efforts of the entire opposition to accomplish its overthrow. Legislation can diminish the temptation to drink, render odious the traffic and punish the transgressor; but it requires a higher power to develop in the heart that virtue which is the only hope of real reformation.

The extinction of the liquor traffic is a simple problem. Withhold its support and it must cease. We are not asubjects as formerly to the charge of fanaticism when we try to persuade the people as to their best interests in this matter. The action of the Catholic bishops in 1888 was alluded to as having much to do in reforming public opinion in the church on this subject. No one will now pretend that the work is that of a few enthusiasts. In the past few years total abstinance societies have grown immensely in popularity, and the liquor seller can no longer pose as a pillar of the church.

He conceded that the evil of liquor lies in its abuse and not in its use; but so difficult is it to define the difference that our best physicians have declared that the habitual used of intoxicants is an abuse. He then spoke at some length of the gradually growing habit, and the frivolous excuses men make for playing with a delusive appetite. He gave the authority of Prof. Leibig and other scientists for the almost total absence of nutritive qualities in intoxicants, and showed how in all physical circumstances the totalabstainer has the advantage over the moderate drinker.

The necessity of appealing to the reason and arousing the conscience of men was demonstrated,

The overwhelming testimony of all the most reliable life insurance companies was produced to show the destructive tendency of the drink habit. It was different fifty years ago; but now no safe company will take a risk on the life of a saloon keeper or bar tender—not because they are always drinking men; but the temptation is strong and the tendency too great in that direction to make them desirable patrons. The case of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee, the city of pure Milwaukee ale, was instanced. This company will not issue a policy to a brewer or an employee of a brewery. This company, at the head of reliable insurance companies, with every advantage for obtaining reliable information, and desiring the influence of the monied classes, not from feelings of sentiment, but purely from business policy, regarding such risks as disastrous, refuse policies to the lager beer manufacturing and dealing class.

The cost to the people of supporting the saloon was then touched upon and shown to be enormous, and to fall largely on those who can least afford it. The direct cost for intoxicants is almost more than for all the necessaries of consumption—far more than for bread and meat. The indirect cost no one can estimate These consist of loss of time, injury to business, fines, courts, almshouses, jails, penitentiaries, etc., at least as much more as the direct cost, which the American people squader year after year to sustain a business responsible for more misery, crime and degredation than all other agencies combined, and utterly destitute of one redeeming feature as an excuse for its existence.

The speaker then spoke of our grand age and country; of the boundless opportunities for our young men; cited examples of self made men, none of whom had time to spend or money to squander at liquor saloons. Father Cleary said that he had carefully investigated and found beyond all doubt that the underlaking source of all trouble in the much vexed labor question was this very liquor habit. He had inspected the pay rolls of many establishments and found in multitudes of cases that men who received $40 a week, after receiving two weeks pay and settling their liquor and grocery bills had nothing left. Such men—and they comprised the vast majority—were at the mercy of capitalists, and it was their own fault. Receiving ample wages they were in constant proverty; and yet not supposed to be a drunkard class. An

LOUISVILLE TAKEN

By a Sudden Irruption of Republican Leaguers.

FALLS CITY GRACEFULLY SUBMITS.

And Welcomes the Invaders to Her Heart and Hotels—Many Leaders Present to Look Over the Situation and Plan for Future Action—Quite a Warm Contest Over the Presidency of the League—The National Committee.

LOUISVILLE, May 10.—The representatives of the young Republicans of the nation have taken the leading city of the Democratic Blue Grass state by storm. All day long resplendent in vari-colored badges, indicative at once of the faith within them and of the locality from which they hail, they have had possession of the streets, while at night the hotels surrendered to their invasion. Today when the Democratic mayor of the Falls City bade them thrice welcome and told them that they are welcome to the best and choicest of Kentucky hospitality, the capitulation was complete. This is the largest convention of the National League of Republican clubs that has been held since the birth of that organization.

A Notable Political Event.

Many states that failed of representation last year and the year before responded to the roll-call with good sized delegations. The event is also notable for the large attendance of men that for years have been prominent in the councils of the older heads of the party. In this particular the scenes are a reminder of the eve of the assembling of a Republican presidential convention. The presence of such men as J. Sloat Fassett, of New York; J. H. Manley, of Maine, the trusted friend of the late idol of the Republican party; Powell Clayton, of Arkansas; R. C. Kerens, of St. Louis; Governor Nelson, of Minnesota; M. H. De Young, of San Francisco; John Gowdy, of Indiana; J. H. Dubose, of Idaho; John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, and others of the leading lights of the party testifies to the interest that is manifested in the movement.

A Number of Prominent Absentees.

At the same time many of those whose presence had been confidently relied upon, found it impossible from one cause or another to put in an appearance. Among these are ex-President Harrison, ex-Vice President Morton, Governor McKinley, ex-Governor Foraker, Thomas B. Reed, ex-Senator Spooner and Henry Cabot Lodge. The suggestion, however, that their absence is occasioned by any lukewarmness or the belief that it was yet too early to commence to lay plans for future Republican success is emphatically repudiated by General Clarkson and his colleagues. They say that each and every absence is accounted for on the score of prior political or business engagements, and that each of the absentees has written an expression of the warmest interest in the future of the league.

The Probable Declaration.

The prevalent feeling is that the convention should assert the continued fidelity of the young Republicans to the platform sent out from the Minneapolis convention and declare its intention of fighting the battles of the future on the same lines. The silverites from the far west, who are anxious to place the convention on record as favoring free coinage as a party issue, may be permitted an opportunity of presenting their case, but the convention will have none of it or of any other outside "ism." Plans will be submitted for broadening and extending the work of the league preparatory first to the congressional elections for next year, and second, to the next presidential campaign.

President Clarkson has had a spell of stomach trouble since he arrived, but got over it and declared that nothing short of complete collapse would prevent his being in the chair. Headquarters have been opened at a hotel by Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, of Iowa, as the solitary delegate of the Woman's Republican league. As she cannot hold a convention all by herself she proposes to assert her right to be seated as a member of the league convention proper. Many of the delegates, however, are opposed to this course, and will cross lances with Mrs. Foster if she attempts to follow out her programme. The name of General Alger as a candidate for the league presidency has been sprung and received with some favor by the delegates as yet unpledged.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE MEETING.

Rumors of a Change of Chairmen—Summary of the Situation.

The meeting of the national Republican committee divides interest with that of the league. Concerning this gathering there is an air of mystery. None of the members on the ground, from Chairman Thomas H. Carter down, will admit that they know just what they are likely to do beyond the fact that they will review the political situation as it affects the Republican party, exchange opinions regarding the causes of last year's defeat, and possibly embody their conclusions in an address to the country. Rumors of a probable fight in the committee, having as its object the ousting of Carter from the chairmanship, are in everybody's mouth.

As to Editor De Young, who it was said would lead the contesting element, Chairman Carter expressed the belief in emphatic terms that his Californian associate was not only friendly to him but unwilling to do anything that would tend to destroy the prevailing harmony in the committee. A member of this body, however, summarized the situation in this way: "There is a prevailing and predominant anti-Harrison feeling in the committee, and the members want an expression from Carter as to whether he is for or against Harrison. He has not yet signified as to how he stands. If it is developed that he is a Harrison partisan De Young will have a strong support for the position of chairman."

The organization of the national committee is a subject of much speculation and those members present went into secret session, and discussed the matter for some time, rather warmly it is said, the question being whether Carter should be confirmed as chairman. The matter was settled before the meeting adjourned, it being decided to support before the full meeting today a resolution accepting Campbell's resignation and indorsing Carter for chairman of the national committee.

As to the presidency of the League the contest seems to be narrowed down to Tracey, of Illinois, and W. P. Squires, of Toledo, O. There are, however, some elements at work which may change all the slate. It is the talk that Spooner, of Wisconsin, is to be sprung in the convention for chairman, and it is also said that this has its head center on the national committee. The argument used in Spooner's interest is that a man of national prominence is needed to head the League, a requirement that neither Tracy nor Squires can make good.

W. W. Tracy, of Illinois, gained considerable strength during the day, but a big delegation of Buckeys are whooping things up for President Squires, of the Ohio State league, and claim a majority of the convention in advance. President Burke, of the College league, appears to be having everything his own way in his canvass for the secretaryship.

Indiana has no candidate for the presidency, but is making a dead set for the convention for her capital city. In this she has but one formidable rival, Denver, Colo., almost a new quantity in the field, but conceded by all to be a powerful foe.

A RULE OF SECRETARY HERBERT.

Naval Officers of Exceptional Ability Interested Therein.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary Herbert says he proposes to grant no more extended leaves of absence to naval officers in order that they may enter private employ for a year or more without losing their naval connection. There has been quite a demand for naval officers of high technical skill, and a number of them are working for private firms at high salaries, retaining their naval status and drawing the salaries of officers on leave of absence. Secretary Herbert said he would not interfere with the action of his predecessors in granting leaves, but that in the future no new applications would be granted, and existing leaves would not be extended.

The list of officers at present on leave and in private employ is headed by Commander Folger, former chief of the bureau of ordnance, who is away on a two years' leave and is supposed to be working for the new Harvey nickel plate syndicate. Lieutenant Commander Cornwell is employed by the Thompson-Houston Electric company; Chief Engineer Towne by Cramp & Sons; Civil Engineer Mencal by the Nicaragua Canal company; Engineer Perry by the Topographical society on Arctic work; Lieutenant W. W. Wood by the American Projectile company; Lieutenant C. A. Stone by the Carnegie company, and there are others. All the officers named are of exceptional ability, which explains the demand for their services.

LOOKS LIKE HE SHOULD WIN.

A Citizen Who Complains with Color of Justice.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—A curious customs case is pending before the treasury department. A citizen of the United States residing in Honolulu, Hawaiian islands, sent some razors to San Francisco to be ground and returned to him. On reaching San Francisco the razors were seized for duty, 90 cents, and after two months' delay were returned to Honolulu. The citizen has now entered complaint against the collector at the Port of San Francisco for the detention of his goods, and has also enclosed a bill for $10.25, the amount it cost him for being shaved during the time his razors were in the United States custom house at San Francisco. The matter is under consideration by Assistant Secretary Hamlin.

Meeting of Hotelkeepers.

CINCINNATI, May 10. — President McCreary read an address before the convention of the Hotelmen's Mutual Benefit association in which he commented on the purposes of the organization and the advantages to be derived from membership. The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Washington L. Jacques, of New York; secretary and treasurer, Walter Barnes, of Chicago. The association adopted resolutions declaring that discontent among hotel employes is fomented by recent importarions who have no intention of becoming American citizens, and that a list of these agitators be supplied to all hotel and restrurant keepers, none of whom shall hereafter be employed.

Judge Lochren on Pensions.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Judge Lochren has arrived and taken his post as commissioner of pensions. He said he had formulated no policy, but would carry out the law. It was rather odd, considering that the war had been over thirty years, that such a large sum was needed for pensions. He also referred to the fact that within a very few years the total pension payments had been doubled in volume, though it was a natural result of the liberal legislation of 1890. He thought there was a growing sentiment in the country in favor of reform in the matter of pensions, a sentiment that was reflected in many influential newspapers, Republican as well as Democratic.

Doings of Illinois Solons.

SPRINGFIELD, May 10.—The senate made the bill requiring all public treasurers to account for interest on public funds a special order for Tuesday and then did nothing with it. The senatorial apportionment bill was passed as it came from the house. The bill to appropria $287,500 for Joliet penitentiary to keep the convicts there at work under the new law was passed. The house did not have a quorum because the Republicans had decided to break it pending the senate's action on the apportionment bill. The Democrats did not have all their members on hand and so adjourned.

Report of the Order of Maccabees.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 10.—The report of the supreme commander of the Maccabees for the biennial term ended last December, submitted to the meeting of the supreme tent, shows a membership of 49,328 outside of Michigan, a net gain in two years of 128 per cent. At that date the total amount of life benefits was $67,004,000. The entire membership of the order throughout the country, including Michigan, reaches 116,000.

Atlanta to Go to Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The cabinet meeting was devoted chiefly to the condition of affairs in Central and South America. The situation in Nicaragua, according to advices received by Secretary Gresham is serious. It was decided at the cabinet meeting to sent the Atlanta to Nicaragua for the protection of American interests and especially our rights in the interoceanic canal now being built.

The Reinterment of Jeff Davis.

RICHMOND, Va., May 10.—The programme for the reinterment of Jefferson Davis' remains in Hollywood cemetery, May 31, contemplates that the special train leave New Orleans with the body May 28. The governors of the states through which the funeral train will pass have been requested to meet at the lines of their respective states and escort it to the edge of their territory.

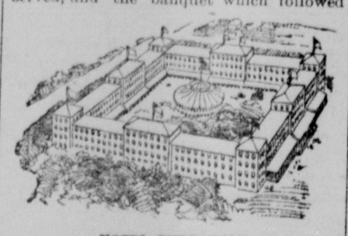

VERMONTERS DINE.

A Cold Water Banquet at the Hotel Endeavor.

NUMBER OF TOASTS RESPONDED TO,

While the Guests Indulged in the Mild Dissipation of the Cigar—Dedication of the Vermont Building at Jackson Park—Programme of Exercises—Denizens of Midway Plaisance Excited Over the Chemical Bank Failure.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Sons and daughters of the Green Mountain state to the number of several hundred gathered in the Hotel Endeavor near the World's Fair grounds, the occasion being a reception to all New Englanders in general and to the Vermont members of the New England Press association in particular. As the Endeavor hotel is strictly a temperance institution, not even the traditional apples and hard cider—or the cider at least—could be served, and the banquet which followed the reception was of the cold water variety. It was a merry affair, however, and neither trouble nor money was spared to make it an enjoyable occasion. Besides the Press association and the members of its party there were present the governor of Vermont and his staff, many prominent men from the Green Mountain state and a number of distinguished guests connected with the World's Fair.

Cigars Were Not Prohibited.

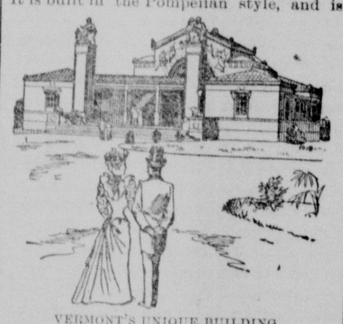

The banquet was an elaborate affair, and when the cloth had been removed and the cigars lighted President L. H. Bisbee, of the Chicago Son of Vermont, delivered a formal speech of welcome, in which he referred to the love which Vermonters, no matter how far away, bore to their native state. He said that every true son of Vermont would keep open house during the World's fair for the entertainment of their brethren of the old commonwealth, and urged that the state should send large delegations to the big show.

Didn't Go Home Till Morning.

Colonel H. B. Parker, of the Bradford Opinion, responded to the toast "The Vermont Press Association," and Editor Grout, of the Newport Express, spoke for the "World's Columbian Exposition." A number of exposition chiefs of departments were heard from in response to toasts, and then Governor Levi K. Fuller responded to "Vermont in the Civil War." A. N. Waterman spoke for "Vermonters Abroad;" Colonel J. H. Goulding answered for "Vermonters at Home," and Dr. D. K. Pearson responded to "The Benefactor." Others who spoke were General J. G. McCullough, A. N. Swain and ex-Lieutenant Governor U. A. Woodbury. It was well past midnight when the party dispersed.

Dedication of Vermont's Building.

The Vermont building in the exposition was dedicated and there were genuine down east doings at the pretty little Pompeiian structure down on the lake shore. The building is one of the smallest of the state houses on the ground, but whatever in may lack in size it makes up in beauty and neatness. It is built in the Pompeiian style, and is only one story high. Immediately in front of the main circular hall is an open court, in the center of which is a marble fountain. On either side of the court is a reception room divided into two parts by a large door. The large room opening upon the court is surmounted by a dome, and will accommodate about 400 guests.

Programme of Exercises.

The exercises began at 10 o'clock, and the following programme was observed:

Music, orchestra.
Prayer.
Music, ladies' trio.
Formal assignment of the building to the exposition by Colonel A. F. Walker, of the state commission.
Acceptance of the building on the part of the exposition by Director General George R. Davis.

WORRIED OAER A BANK FAILURE.

The Chemical Difficulty Stirs Up the Commissioners.

The principal subject discussed at the national commission meeting was the failure of the Chemical bank. Gammon of Oklahoma introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a special committee of six to investigate the affairs of the bank and report to the commission the advisability of allowing the bank to resume business in the exposition grounds. Gammon declared that the officials of the bank had told him that they intended to reopen in a day or two. J. E. Stearns, of Idaho, who is not often heard upon the floor, jumped up to say: "I know that this bank has been in a rotten condition for months. I have it from men who sold their stock in the bank and from bankers who are connected with this exposition that the other banks of Chicago had knowledge of the Chemical bank's condition for two months."

The resolution was adopted. When asked to say more about his charges, Stearns informed a reporter that Commissioner Strong, of Tennessee, had shown him a letter from Banker Lyman J. Gage, ex-president of the World's Fair, to the effect that the Chemical bank was in a shaky condition, and that all Chicago banks believed the Chemical would not last much longer. The Idaho commissioner said he had met his brother and asked him how much of the bank's stock he had been caught for. "I pulled out of that hole two months ago," said his brother, adding that the comptroller of the treasury knew the bank was not in a sound condition at that time.

Stearns denounced the local directory of the fair for allowing such a bank to open a branch in the exposition with the knowledge which the bankers of that body must have possessed. Commissioner Woodward, of Louisiana, said that he had some money in the exposition bank which he wanted to get, but all he got was the sight of a notice posted on the door by the First National bank informing foreigners who held letters of credit that they would be honored at Mr. Gage's bank.

There was the most excitement, so far as the fair grounds were concerned, in the Midway Plaisance, where the Orientals were in a terrible state of mind until convinced that they would lose nothing.

The paid admissions at the fair for the day were 16,122.

The Isabella Quarter.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Superintendent Bosbyshell, superintendent of the mint, expects to begin about June the striking of the new Isabella quarters, for which designs have been accepted. Forty thousand pieces are to be turned out.

SIMPLY A FURTHER DEVELOPMENT.

Is Progress Toward Savagery According to Darwin?

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 10.—News of a bloody encounter in which a man led a band of desperadoes for the purpose of mobbing his brother, has reached the city from Madison county. In Danielsville there lived two brothers named David and Mark Ford. David is a notorious illicit distiller, while Mark lives in town and is a member of the church. A week ago David lost his still, and accused his brother Mark of having taken it. Later Mark was told that his brother wanted to see him.

He went out and walked off with David until he caught sight of a number of men standing behind some trees, when he refused to go further, declaring that he was being led into a trap. At this David cursed him and fired at him twice, inflicting fatal wounds. Then the party of eleven men who had been led there by David Ford came out and the whole party began kicking and jumping upon Mark, who is now dead.

CHEMICAL STOCKHOLDERS

The Only Ones Who Will Lose by That Failure at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 10.—The cause of the closing of the Chemical National bank was the lack of $150,000, and President Curry says that the clearing house declined to help him out, refusing even to look at his securities. He said further: "Depositors will get 100 cents on the dollar. They will not lose a penny. Unless there is extravagant waste and mismanagement in winding up the affairs of the bank there will not be serious inroads upon the capital, and stockholders should save a good part of their investment." He did not think there was any prospect of the bank resuming.

Meeting of the Y. M. C. A.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10.—Delegates are thick in the city to the thirtieth international convention of the Y. M. C. A., which began today. The meeting will extend from the 10th to the 14th. There will be an attendance of over 1,000 delegates from all over the world, and particularly of the United States. These meetings are held biennially, and at such times the plan of work for each association is mapped out. In the afternoon of one of the days of the convention there will be a series of separate conferences to consider various departments of association work, such as state and provincial work, religious and physical work, work among boys, college students, railroad employes, non-English speaking young men, commercial travelers, etc.

A South Dakota Law Invalid.

ST. PAUL, May 10.—A special to The Dispatch from Sioux Falls says: "Last Winter the South Dakota legislature passed a law empowering the state railway commissioners to fix maximum passenger rates. The railway commissioners came here to consul the interstate commerce commission on the constitutionality of the statute. The commission, after careful examination; decided that there are so many glaring errors in the bill that it would not stand. On this advice the state commission will refuse to act under the law."

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The gold reserve, which has for the past two weeks been below the limit, has been made intact again by the west. Secretary Carlisle accepted the gold offered from St Louis, Mo.—$2,000,000—which with the gold in the treasury makes the total $100,196,000, or $196,000 free gold.

A Sailor Man's Luck Piece.

Warfinger Isaacs at Folsom street found a silver quarter, and thereby proved that sailors' superstition is not dead yet. The coin was found imbedded in the end of a fender that had been hoisted up on the dock to have new mooring holes bored. This fender is an immense pine stick that originally saw duty as a lowermast of some vessel, just what sort of a craft, however, has been lost in obscurity by the fact that the old fender has been shifted so often that the oldest warfinger could not call up its origin or first service. It was bought, as scores of others are, after it had been condemned as a mast, and after years of banging between ships and wharves only the step at the butt end remains to tell that it had ever supported canvas.

Isaacs' find was made in the center of the step, into the rotten wood of which he was idly boring with his cane. A dozen sailors wanted to secure the "luck piece," but the wharfinger retained it to tempt fortune for himself. The custom of planting a coin under the mast of a vessel is as old as the art of shipbuilding. In early days it was intended to propitiate the gods of the waters and was universal among all nations. The custom is still practiced to a considerable extent, and nine vessels out of ten afloat today will show a bit of minted gold or silver in the center of the step of the mainmast if search be made. The quarter picked up by Isaacs was coined in 1871, and save for being blackened by the action of the salt water was as fresh as the day it came from the mint.—San Francisco Examiner.

Shorthand Language.

"One col," he brusquely announced as he entered a gents' furnishing store on upper Broadway.

"Cert," replied the girl in attendance as she took down a collar and wrapped it up.

"Much?" he queried as he toyed with a silver piece.

"Quar dol," she answered as she gave him the change.

"O K," he said as he turned away.

"Tra la," she replied as she went back to finish waiting on an old man who had been looking at neckties.

"What sort o' language do you call that?" he asked.

"Shorthand, sir."

"Oh, that's it? Sort o' saves your breath, doesn't it?"

"Course."

"Well, I don't think I could ever get used to it at my age. It don't express enough."

"How?"

"Why, land o' love! I want to say to you that I'll wear one of my suspenders around my neck for a tie before I'll pay 50 cents for such shoddy as these. How could you express all that in three or four words?"

"I can do it in one," she replied.

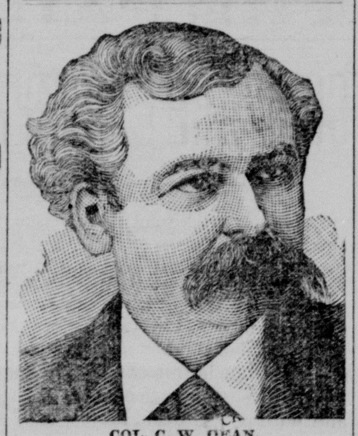

"How?"

"Git."

And he ambled.—New York Clipper.

Animal Oils In Medicine.

The number of animal oils and fats used in medicine are extremely numerous. Large quantities of oil are obtained in Tasmania from the mutton bird and used as a liniment for rheumatism, while the fat of the frigate bird is said to be an excellent specific for sciatica. Cod liver oil is too well known to bear more than mention, and the oil got from the dugong, an aquatic monster related to the whale tribe, has a high reputation as a substitute for that obtained from the smaller fry of the cod. From 6 to 14 gallons of this medicinal oil can be taken out of a single animal.—London Tit Bits.

LIGHT ON A CRIME.

Fifteen Years Required to Unearth the Truth.

A STORY OF TWO-FOLD VILLAINY.

With the Object of Swindling a Life Insurance Company Out of $40,000 a Man Is Murdered and His Body Passed Off For That of the Insured—The Tangle of Wickedness at Last Completely Unraveled

NEW YORK, May 10.—John W. Hillmon, the hero and chief conspirator of the famous "Hillmon insurance swindle," of Kansas, has been found. For fifteen years relatives have been trying in the courts to prove him dead in order to collect about $40,000 insurance on his life. It is said Hillmon has made a clean breast of the whole affair.

The story of the case involves the murder of an innocent man to provide a corpse, wholesale perjury and a host of other crimes. Hillmon was 34 years of age when he disappeared from Medicine Ladge, Kan., in 1878. He had always been a poor man, and when it was found that he had left insurance policies aggregating $40,000 the suspicions of the companies were aroused and they contested the claim of Hillmon's alleged widow to the money.

The Uncertainty of Identification.

The corpse which was said to be Hillmon's was identified by many supposedly reputable witnesses, but when it was afterward exhumed on the company's order Hillmon's neighbors declared that it was not his, and his wife, in giving a description of her husband, failed to describe the corpse. The company fought the claim on these grounds. The case was tried three times. The first and second time the jury disagreed, and the third time a verdict was returned in favor of the plaintiff. New evidence has been discovered that decided the companies to argue for a new trial.

The Murder and Conspiracy.

On March 17, 1879, a man was shot and killed in a desolate lumber camp on Crooked creek, Kan., by John H. Brown, a partner of Hillmon, who claimed that the shooting was accidental. He notified a farmer near by, who went with him to view the body. The dead man's head lay near the fire, and his head had been burned, destroying his features partly. Brown said the man was Hillmon, and the body was buried. Brown afterward confessed that he had entered into a conspiracy in December, 1878, with Hillmon and Levi Baldwin to defraud the life insurance companies by insuring Hillmon's life.

How the Victim Was Obtained.

Baldwin was to furnish the money and Hillmon and Brown were to manage the disappearance of the former. They started for Wichita and on the way picked up a strange man named Joe Berkeley. This man, Brown alleged, was shot by Hillmon, who dressed the corpse in his own clothing and put his diary in his pocket. Hillmon put on Berkeley's clothing, and saying that there was "a corpse ready made" to impersonate him, left the camp. He told Brown that he would assume the name of Marshall and lay low until they got the money on the policies.

RUNNING DOWN THE CRIME.

Real Name of the Murdered Man Discovered—Trailing Mrs. Hillmon.

After Brown had made this confession it was discovered that he had lied. The dead man was not Joe Berkeley, but Frederick Adolph Walters, a young German cigar maker of Fort Madison, Ia., who had gone to Lawrence in 1878 and disappeared about the same time that Hillmon did. This brought the matter down to a plain case of murder in which John H. Brown and Hillmon were the principals, with Levi Baldwin and Mrs. Hillmon as accessories before the fact.

That was the condition of the case when the argument for a new trial was made by the insurance companies. In the meantime Mrs. Hillmon had traveled much and the companies concluded that by following her they could find her husband. This clue failed, as she married again. However, the detectives employed by the insurance people kept steadily at work on the case and finally succeeded in running down the principal in the swindle.

It is understood that he consented readily enough to make a clean breast of the affair in order to clear himself of the charge that he had killed Walters. This crime, according to the detectives, he lays at Brown's door. The latter has been kept under surveillance, and it is probable that all the conspirators will be brought up on criminal charges if the insurance companies make good their claims regarding the identity of the man who has been identified as Hillmon.

OUTRAGE AND SUICIDE.

The Miscreant Kills Himself After His Brutal Crime.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 10.—When Webb Moon, who lives east of this city, went home he found his wife unconscious. Her clothing was torn, face bruised and evidences of a criminal assault after a severe struggle. In the same room he found Dan Stuart, a driver for the American Express company, dead with a bullet in his brain. Mrs. Moon probably will recover. Stuart had killed himself after his struggle with Mrs. Moon.

The Uses of Old English Churches.

In more than one well known case the holy edifice consists merely of a barn attached to but walled off from a regular Pele tower. Even in southern England a semimilitary character is given sometimes to a church tower by the cresset, wherefrom, in cases of general danger—such, for instance, as the Spanish armada or the French incursions of a later period—the beacon fire spread the news from town to town and from village to village.

In a later age than that of civil war the vaults of coast churches played a very important part of what was an important branch of business. When a new rector was appointed to a church in the wealds of Kent or Sussex it was usual for him to receive a contribution to his wine cellar, accompanied by a concise intimation that out of regard for his future peace and happiness and perhaps safety he would do well not to inquire too closely into the uses to which the vaults beneath his church were put.—London Standard.

Mothers Recommends It.

The strongest recommedation that any article can have is the endorsement of the mothers of the town. When the mothers recommend it you may know that article has more than ordinary merit. Here is what the Centerville, South Dakoto, Citizen says editorially of an article sold in their town: "From personal experience we can say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has broken up bad colds for our childern. We are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without it in the house for a good many times its cost, and are recommending it every day." 50 cent bottles for sale by W. D. SCRIP.

From Palmyra.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Russell spent Sunday at Clarence Brown's in Rock Falls.

Mrs. Eunice Ayres, who has been called here by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Parks, in Dixon, has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Mary Lawrence.

Ellwood Hughes and John McCleary were last Sunday re-elected stewards of the Palmyra church. These gentlemen have served in this capacity for several years and they deserve much credit for the efforts they have put forth in securing the necessary funds to aid in presenting the gospel.

The next meeting of the Rock River Farmers' Club will be held next Wednesday afternoon at W. A. Judd's in Dixon. A full attendance is desired in order that arrangements may be made for the June picnic.

Some of our Palmyra people are questioning the advisability of requesting the commissioners of Dixon to repair the gravel road approaching the Loveland bridge west of the milk factory, which is in very bad condition, especially in the vicinity of the bridge.

A Cat That Put Out a Fire.

Some of our friends have a cat which they esteem very highly.

On a cold winter day Mr. and Mrs. B. went to church, some five miles away, and left the house in the possession of the cat, Tom, who upon their return home rushed out and buried his paws in the cold snow.

Wanting to find out the meaning of this behavior on Tom's part, they examined his paws and found them blistered and burned. They walked into the house and found to their surprise that the carpet around the grate was burned, but the fire had been extinguished. They now took in the situation. A coal had fallen out of the grate and set the carpet ablaze, which had been extinguished by Tom, who had burned his paws in the effort he made.—Cor. New York Recorder.

A Lamb's Ride on a Cowcatcher.

A rather singular incident occurred on the Savannah, Florida and Western railway the other day. It was about 40 miles from Waycross on a through train to Chattahoochee. On the track just in front of the train the engineer, Mr. DuBose, saw a sheep with a young lamb. It was too late to stop the engine, and the train passed on, leaving mutton in its wake. Arrived at Waycross, the engineer descended from his engine and saw the lamb alive and unhurt on the cowcatcher. It had been carried 40 miles without a scratch.—Brunswick (Ga.) Times.

SPECIAL WORLD'S FAIR CORRESPONDENCE.

THE TELEGRAPH has the pleasure of herewith placing before its readers the first of a series of letters from the World's Fair city, written by one of Dixon's own citizens, to whom is afforded exceptional opportunities for observation in every department of the Exposition, and who has the ability not only to make her letters highly interesting, but eminently useful to those who may follow her later. At present we have not permission to use her name; she is a lady, however, whose judgement may be relied upon, a leader in the cultivated circles of Dixon society.

One week of this truly great and wonderful fair is passed and contrary to all expectations has not reflected the greatest credit upon the management.

That the buildings were incomplete and but few of the exhibits in placed could be excused. The weather had for weeks been dreadful, strikes, and a thousand other hinderances were to contend with. Enough however was ready to please and interest. Buildings and gates which had been open were upon the first day closed Vast corridors and all avialable seats were reserved for the officials and their friends. by exactly what right these seats, furnished by the goverment, were set aside for a chosen few, no one has yet been able to discover. Thousands stood in the wet and mud through the entire ceremonies, when just in front of them were empty reserved seats, reserved for those who handle the money of the fair but pay for little themselves.

In any case all could not have been seated, but it was the lack of disposition to care for the great public that was so evident in the general arrangements of the day. There were a few privileges accorded the common herd, they saw all the great men of the Fair and of foreign lands; they saw and heard the President of the U. S., saw him press the button. Then came a general rush for something to refresh the cold, wet, tired and hungry. Many came but never were served, and left the grounds late in the afternoon, without a morsel to eat from early morning.

The skies have cleaned. The sun has warmed the air and we have almost forgotten the discomforts we endured the first few days. In two weeks almost everything will be in place. In fact there are many fine exhibits now ready, no one should complain; for the grounds and exterior of the buildings is well worth more than one fee at the gate. Yet one must prepare for the extortion which is met with on every hand. Some of the railroads, instead of reducing fares to the suburban places have raised the rates in porportion 6 to 10 cents.

It is impossible to get a meal on the grounds for anything like a reasonable price. Later on many of these abuses will be rectified.

It would be well for those coming to the fair hism onth to bring from home a lunch supply to last for a few days at least. Also bring a blanket, as many who rent rooms have not expected such cold weather and cannot or do not supply sufficient bedding. The suburbs south of the fair grounds are especially desirable. The means of conveyance, such as steam, electric and cable cars, are abundant and never crowded, while towards the city it is hard to get standing room. Windsor Park is without doubt superior to all other places as a home for the next six months; right on the lake shore, quiet, healthful, plenty of rooms. The many Dixon people who will stop there during the summer may be thankful their lines have fallen in such pleasant places.

The Sunday question is adjusting itself We came here an earnest advocate for Sunday opening, but have changed our mind very materially. Viewing this subject from a distance and being on the grounds gives the matter a very different coloring. The managers have one and only one object in wishing to open the gates, and that is the revenue; and the question is which gives them the most money, opening or closing the gates. The maximum will be the one they will finally favor.

effective picture of the legitimate products of the liquor traffic was here drawn, and not by any means overdrawn. Not all the sin and vice of the world was imputed to this cause; but it was shown that no one vice was to be compared with it as the prolific source of other vices; and there was no other vice against which all classes should as unitedly stand shoulder to shoulder.

The saloon can no more exist without making drunkards than can a saw mill do business without turning logs into lumber. It is only a question of whose boys shall furnish the supply Nowhere does the prosperity of the saloon evidence the prosperity of the community; but it is in a direct opposite ratio, and all concede it a dangerous business.

The speaker closed with a strong appeal to young men and young women, to fathers and mothers to make temperance popular at home, and showed how much easier it was to be a total abstainer than a moderate drinker. Sobriety is the foundation of success. All men cannot meet with the same measure of success; but the sober and industrious man is sure to succeed to the extent of his abilities and attainments.

At the close of his address, he called on those who were willing to take a pledge of total abstinence for one year to arise and a majority of the entire audience arose to their feet and repeated after him a solemn pledge.

City Council—Special Meeting.

His Honor, Mayor Jos. F. Palmer called the council to order in special session last evening. There were present all the aldermen excepting Plein and Parsons.

The special committee to draft a health ordinance reported, and on motion of Alderman Neighbor, ordinance was adopted. On motion of Alderman Godfrey, Dr. A. L. Miller was appointed Commissioner of Health at a salary of fifty dollars per month The ordinance is to regulate the sanitary condition of the city of Dixon, and provides that the department shall consist of an officer known as and styled "Commissioner of Health," together with the mayor and city marshal, the last two of whom shall be ex officio members of said department of health and shall constitute an advisory board to act with said commissioner of health in the exercises of the powers and performance of the duties specified in the ordinance, which is a very long one, covering every and all features regarding the regulation of the sanitary conditions of our city; giving the commissioner of health entire control of that department.

The Sidewalk Committee reported favorably on the building of the following walks:

In Fourth Ward, on North Dement avenue, from Chamberlain street one block north to Morgan street and one block west on Morgan street.

On North Galena avenue, in front of D. M Fahrney's, a piece of walk in front of his lot and the taking up of the crossing now in and laying across the street farther south than the present crossing.

On south side of Fourth street from College avenue west one block.

On Madison avenue from Seventh to Ninth and one block west from Madison on Eighth.

On Third street, between Jefferson and Demeat avenues.

South side of Eighth, one block and crossings.

Alderman Godfrey moved to accept report of Sidewalk Committee and in addition to the above, a walk be built on Highland avenue, from Ninth street south to terminus. Carried.

Messrs. J. F. Sanford and C. A. Hughes of North Dixon, residents of North Galena avenue, asked permission to put in sewer on North Galena avenue from Everett street south to river. On motion of Alderman Godfrey the matter was referred to a special committee, consisting of His Honor Mayor Palmer and aldermen Rosbrook and Gonnerman, to investigate and report at next meeting.

Regarding the use of the stone crusher, on motion of Alderman Rosbrook, $125 was ordered paid to Citizens' Association for the use of the stone crusher for 1892

The old Health Ordinance No. 212 was repealed

Council then adjourned until next Friday evening.

Indians With Queer Titles.

How would you like to go to school where the roll call is like this: "Sophia Little Bear, Annie Red Crane, Lizzie Spider, Kistoe, Gray Cloud, Laughing Face, Delay Ankle, Joseph White Plume, Frank Yellowbird, Porcupine Creek?"

All these are real names taken from the catalogue of a very famous school for Indians at Hampton, Va. I am told that sometimes the little red men become dissatisfied with their picturesque titles and try to "Americanize" their names. And it is on record that one Shawnee lad who entered the institute as Tommy Wild Cat appeared afterward in the catalogue as "Thomas W. Catt!"—Harper's Young People.

COMPARE! COMPARE! COMPARE!

Honest intelligent comparison will prove to you that we are absolute advertisers of facts, and that we sell the best merchandise as cheap as any sold and in many instances cheaper.

We care not to hug our reputation to our breast and cry good enough. The most glorious success ever made by any clothing housemakes us more ambitious than ever. We care not to recline in our chairs and rest our heads on past laurels won. But with past experience, we are the more prepared to do better and with pluck, push, brains, cash and Dixon enterprise we defy any house in Illinois to show better stocks or lower prices.

By comparison you will see we are the most representative foremost and best clothing house in this part of the state.

Our Greatest of all ten dollar suit sale has demonstrated again that THE PLYMOUTH is still in the lead, and only by special request will we continue our
